1. Summary

In this projects exam I decided to make a food blog based on healthy food and animal welfare.

I will start the report talking a bit about the target audience before I describe my process for the design and the choices made until I started on the html and css.

I met some technical issues along the way, I have seen some videos and got help from some webpages(with a link to them of course).

At the end of the report I talk about WCAG and accessibility.

2. Body

2.1 User

2.1.1 Target audience

The target audience for this blog is for both women and men, age 18-60, who wants to eat healthy and wants to get inspired to do so.

They care about animal welfare, they want to eat mostly vegetarian food and less meat. But if they want to eat meat sometime and then, they don't want to support the bad meat industry but rather support the farmers who make sure the animals has a good life.

To eat healthy they want to be creative, and make food from scratch, using real food and not ultra-processed food, which most of the vegetarian options is in the stores today.

I asked some people I know about how they would do to find healthy food to make, so I could get insight at some user needs:

Who?	Answer
Woman 38 year old	Search bar at the site and a menu with breakfast, lunch, dinner, dessert and appetizers.
Woman 32 years old	Uses Google to find recipes, but are not a fan of food blogs because of bad SEO.

Man 58 years old	Scrolls down and looks at pictures and the latest. Important that the recipes are simple and you can find the ingredients at the store.
Woman 60 years old	Uses Google to find recipes, uses search words as "healthy food + for ex. Eggs. Or she searches for the exact food she wants.
Man 31 years old	Scrolled fast through the posts at the homepage, and if he couldn't find anything tempting, he would try to get to an overview for the titles on each posts.
Woman 28 years old
Woman 57 years old	Would search around one ingredient or allergens like glutenfree. Or if she would have company.

2.2 Style Tile

2.2.1 Color

Green is a symbol for healthy food, nature and environment (Grafisk Design, p.131).

Psychological; green can have a soothing effect on us and it also can symbolize growth and hope.

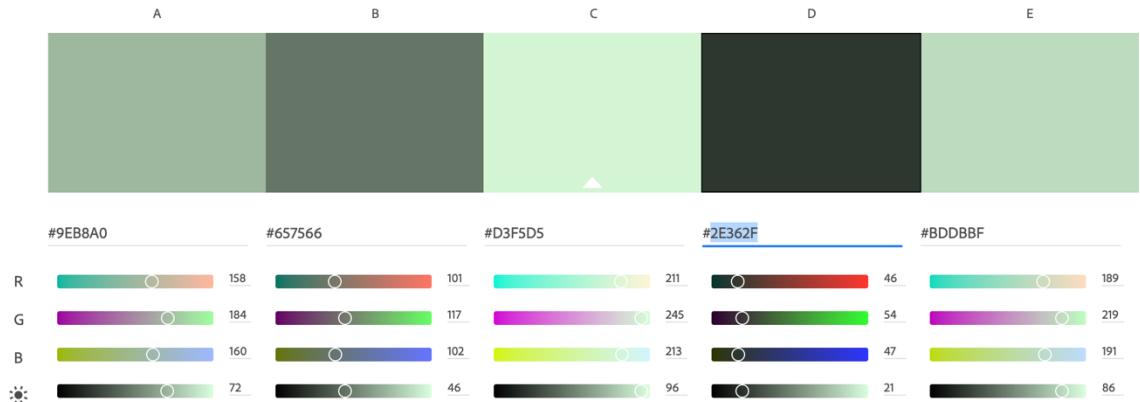

The blog is about healthy food and wants to inspire people to eat more vegetables. I chose therefore green as the main colour at the site along with white, which is clean and pure. The purple symbolize inspiration and creativity.

The colour scheme I chose was analogous colours to create harmony, inspire, and let the food take more focus at the website.

Possible colours

If I wanted to go for the adjectives: natural, healthy, inspiring and clean, this color palette would be more harmonious than the upper one with purple.

2.2.2 Fonts

For the recipes I really wanted it to look handwritten, but still very readable for everyone. Some of the fonts I liked was:

Google Fonts:

Adobe Fonts:

I liked the fonts Tomarik Introvert and Grandma because it was clean, easy to read and it had a “handwritten” quality to it and it did not look to “Comic Sans”-like. Adobe suggested this the Halcom font for pairing Tomarik, so I explored some options:

AVOKADO TOAST, 2
slices of sourdough
bread

This recipe is so good with ingredients you can find on many grocery stores.

~~Tomarik Introvert Halcom~~

The font is not very harmonious together in a line, but will create contrast when paired.

Tomarik Introvert

Halcom halcom halcom Halcom
halcom halcom Halcom halcom
halcom Halcom halcom halcom

I tried Grandma with Halcom and the with Adobe suggestion Warnock Pro Light.

GRANDMA BOLD

halcom Halcom halcom halcom

GRANDMA BOLD

Warnock Pro Light Warnock Pro Light
Warnock Pro Light Warnock Pro Light
Warnock Pro Light Warnock Pro Light

Halcom has no serifs and is therefore easier to read longer text on the web, while Warnock has serifs and is more difficult to read longer text on web.

2.2.3 Logo

I found one vector at Freepik and worked a little on it in Adobe Illustrator(In Reference).

The colors wont match the blog so I changed that as well:

Using the color scheme with the greens I already picked out.

I picked the color # 9eb8a0 and found the complimentary color # b89e9e and my style tile was finished.

Possible colours

RGB: 255, 255, 255 HEX: #FFFFFF	RGB: 211, 245, 213 HEX: #D3F3D5	RGB: 173, 220, 177 HEX: #DADC87	RGB: 158, 184, 160 HEX: #98B8A0	RGB: 46, 54, 47 HEX: #2E3242	RGB: 184, 158, 158 HEX: #B89E9E

2.2.4 Wireframes and prototype

I like to make wireframes with pen and paper and I made wireframes for all the 7 pages I will have on the blog.

I suddenly came across some designs I thought was special and what I would learn to make and that was SVG (Scalable Vector Graphics) and I found the inspiration on Pinterest.

The progress of my prototype started with the homepage, where I tried out some of the colors I wanted.

I wanted the first design at the beginning but I got a friend to look at it, and he thought the yellow brown color did not fit in a design ment for food.

I agreed and like you saw in the choice of my style tile, I went with the last design, with green and a dark pink color.

2.3 Technical

2.3.1 SVG

I have never played around with SVG before, and I really wanted to try it to get that wavy background in the homepage desktop view.

I found some websites that could generate this for me, and I went with <https://www.softtr.io/tools/svg-wave-generator> which gave me the nearest shape of form that I wanted.

I also copied the SVG code from the shapes I made in Adobe Illustrator for det section header designs:

2.3.2 Load More

To make the load more – button, I found a video that was the most closest to the solution I wanted:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=4UZdSp9PMI4>

2.3.3 Breadcrumbs

For making the breadcrumbs I used Javascript and I got a tip on making the script global so I didn't have to use the function in every script file:

<https://learn.microsoft.com/en-us/previous-versions/windows/desktop/htmlhelp/example--create-a-global-script-file>

2.3.4 Date

The date that I got back from the rest API was weird by default:

2022-10-30T14:32:41

I got some help with that Using Javascript `toDateString()` method:

https://www.w3schools.com/JSREF/jsref\_todatestring.asp?fbclid=IwAR2IkWw8A5h0A8Xo6s\_7h3q3ifYN4ZDAS9EaPjKnqUltAeqM2UqWECTxQa0

2.4 User Testing

2.4.1 Design

Some of the users thought that the homepage did not need so much content so I decided to remove the last section with the desserts.

One user did not like the “go to guide” button I had on my contact page, because it sends the users to another site. The user suggested a link that would make it easier to understand it will go to another page, so I changed it:

Animal Welfare

I don't eat a lot of meat, but when I do I make sure to buy meat from animals who has had a good life. Animal welfare is an animal who is healthy, comfortable, well-nourished, safe and who are able to express innate behavior. Animals should not be suffering from pain, fear and distress.

In Norway we are lucky to have foundations who works for the animals. Norwegian Animal Protection Alliance is one of them who has created a guide for the consumers, to help us make the most important choices when we buy products.

Eat less meat, and when you do - choose with your heart and spend some more money for the life that had to die for you.

2.4.2 Hotjar

I like to see that users that have been exploring my site are clicking on the things that are meant to be clicked. The “view more” button are being used to see more posts.

The users navigates with the breadcrumbs to get back to the blog when they view a post and it is good to see that they navigate with the logo to get back to home and with the hamburger menu as well.

And I see here as well that the users are navigating with the breadcrumbs and the footer menu to get around. I don't really get why someone is clicking beside the button or why someone has clicked on the right where it is nothing.

2.4.3 Other user feedback

Some of the users missed that they couldn't search on the site – but I did not get the time to do the optional Level 2 tasks.

2.5 WCAG

2.5.1 Colors

The colors I chose is good for reading accessibility. I used WebAim for checking this.

The figure consists of three side-by-side screenshots from the WebAim color checker tool. Each screenshot shows a specific web element and its color palette analysis.

- Top Left: A header bar with the text "MY LATEST BLOGPOSTS". The foreground color is black (#000000) and the background color is a light green (#9CB59E). The contrast ratio is 9.51:1. Both WCAG AA and AAA pass.
- Top Right: A card for "OVENBAKED APPLES" with the subtitle "Course: Dessert, Snacks". The foreground color is dark blue (#2E362F) and the background color is a light green (#D3F5D5). The contrast ratio is 10.55:1. Both WCAG AA and AAA pass.
- Bottom Left: A "CONTACT ME" button. The foreground color is white and the background color is a dark grey (#B89E9E). The contrast ratio is 4.99:1. WCAG AA passes, but WCAG AAA fails.
- Bottom Right: A "Text Input" field. The foreground color is white and the background color is a light green (#D3F5D5). The contrast ratio is 10.55:1. Both WCAG AA and AAA pass.

Each screenshot includes a "permalink" link at the bottom.

2.5.2 HTML checker

I have used validator.w3.org for checking the HTML for accessibility.

It made me aware of my use of `<section>` - so I changed these into divs.

Warning Section lacks heading. Consider using `h2-h6` elements to add identifying headings to all sections, or else use a `div` element instead for any cases where no heading is needed.

From line 55, column 9; to line 55, column 34

>... <`section class="svg-wave">`...

It also made me aware of that I had forgot to give the `<img>` element an alt attribute.

Error An `img` element must have an `alt` attribute, except under certain conditions. For details, consult guidance on providing text alternatives for images.

From line 72, column 21; to line 72, column 78

3 Conclusion

The Healthy Living blog website is simple and clean. I think I've done a great job, but I really wished I had given me more time to do the optional tasks – so I could had a comment section, a filter on the blog page as I designed it in XD:

I could also had given me more time to do the search to the blog posts to allow finding blog post faster.

Another thing I really wanted to do was to give users recipes based on portions like this:

But it costed to much money for this feature so I couldn't do that this time.
